J. STEVEN O'MALLEY, Assistant Professor of Historical Theology and Methodist Studies at the Graduate Seminary, Phillips University, was educated at Indiana Central College (B.A., magna cum laude), Yale University (B.D.) and Drew University (Ph.D.). A United Methodist ordained elder, he is also the author of Pilgrimage of Faith; the Legacy of the Otterbeins (1973) and is presently at work on producing an English translation of the Otterbeins' sermons and collected writings.

CHARLES W. TYRRELL, Professor Emeritus of Christian Education at the University of Dubuque, has served as pastor of both Methodist and Presbyterian churches. He was educated at the University of Dubuque (A.B., Th.B., M.R.E.) and Indiana University (Ed.D.). Dr. Tyrrell's article, "Methodist Vans: Gospel Heralds to the Villages," appeared in Proceedings of the Wesley Historical Society, Volume XXXIX, Part 6 (October 1974).

ROBERT MICHAEL REED, associate minister at First United Methodist Church, New Castle, Indiana, was educated at Indiana University (M.A.) and The Divinity School, Duke University (M. Div.). This paper was awarded first prize in the 1976 Seminary Award competition sponsored by the Commission on Archives and History.
