CONTENTS

Contributors ................................................................. 2

The Emergence of Chautauqua as a Religious and Educational Institution, 1874-1900, by James H. McBath .................................................. 3

How Methodism Became a National Church in the United States, by John Abernathy Smith ................ 13

John Wesley's Critique of Martin Luther, by Jerry L. Walls ....................... 29

DISCOVERY, edited by Kenneth E. Rowe ................................ 42

Book Reviews ........................................................................... 45

Methodist History is included in Religion Index One: Periodicals,
Religious and Theological Abstracts,
Historical Abstracts and America: History and Life

Manuscripts submitted for publication, and all other correspondence, should be addressed to Editor, METHODIST HISTORY, Lake Junaluska, North Carolina 28745.
CONTRIBUTORS

JAMES H. McBATH is professor of communication arts and sciences at the University of Southern California. He holds a Ph.D. from Northwestern University and was a post-doctoral fellow at the University of London. He served on the editorial board for The Rhetoric of Protest and Reform (Ohio University Press, 1980). Dr. McBath is chairman of the administrative board, First United Methodist Church, Pasadena, California.

JOHN ABERNATHY SMITH is Chaplain at Lebanon Valley College. He holds degrees from Vanderbilt University (B.A.), Drew University (M.Div.), and Johns Hopkins University (M.A. and Ph.D.). Dr. Smith is a member of the Tennessee Conference of The United Methodist Church and is the author of numerous articles on church history.

JERRY L. WALLS is a member of the Southern New Jersey Conference of The United Methodist Church. He holds the B.A. from Houghton College, the M.Div. from Princeton Seminary, and the S.T.M. from Yale.

WALTER N. VERNON is a member of the North Texas Conference of The United Methodist Church and is retired from the Editorial Division of the General Board of Higher Education. He is past president of the South Central Jurisdiction Commission on Archives and History and is the author of a number of published works.