Cover: John William Fletcher (1729-1785), Vicar of Madeley, was John Wesley's choice to be his successor as leader of the Methodist movement.
CONTENTS

Contributors .......................................................... 126

Unity of Heart and Head: Christian Experience and Education in the Evangelical Church
by K. James Stein ....................................................... 127

Freeborn Garrettson and Nova Scotia
by George A. Rawlyk .................................................. 142

John Bennet: "Servant of Jesus Christ in the Worke of the Gospel" by S. R. Valentine ..................................................... 159

Methodist Ministers, Franklin D. Roosevelt, and the New Deal by Monroe Billington and Cal Clark ................................. 166

An Analysis of the Source of John Wesley’s “Directions for Renewing Our Covenant with God”
by Marion A. Jackson .................................................. 176

DISCOVERY edited by Frederick E. Maser .......................... 185

Book Reviews ............................................................ 188
CONTRIBUTORS

K. JAMES STEIN is Jubilee Professor of Church History at Garrett-Evangelical Theological Seminary, where he has taught since 1960. He is a graduate of Union Theological Seminary, New York (Ph.D.), and holds ordination in The United Methodist Church. In addition to his interest in United Methodist history, Dr. Stein is a scholar of Pietism. In 1986 he published Philipp Jakob Spener: Pietist Patriarch (Covenant Press).

GEORGE A. RAWLYK is Professor of History at Queen’s University, Kingston, Canada. This paper was originally presented at the North American Section of the World Methodist Historical Society, which met at Asbury Theological Seminary, Wilmore, KY, in August 1984.

S. R. VALENTINE is Head of Religious Studies at Bradford Grammar School, West Yorkshire, England. He is presently at work on a doctoral dissertation on the life and thought of John Bennet. This article represents the tentative conclusions of his research.

MONROE BILLINGTON is Professor of History at New Mexico State University, where he has taught since 1966. He is a graduate of Oklahoma Baptist (B.A.), the University of Oklahoma (M.A.), and the University of Kentucky (Ph.D.). Among his publications is an article titled, “Lyndon B. Johnson: The Religion of a Politician,” in The Journal of Church and State.

CAL CLARK is Professor of Political Science at the University of Wyoming. He previously taught at New Mexico State University. He is a graduate of Grinnell College (B.A.) and the University of Illinois (Ph.D.). His research interests have centered on the relationships of the state and federal governments. He recently returned from a period of teaching at Taiwan Christian University.

MARION A. JACKSON is a clergy member of the Southern New Jersey Annual Conference of The United Methodist Church. She is a graduate of Rutgers University (B.A., M.S.W.) and Princeton Theological Seminary (M.Div., Th.M.). She is currently enrolled in the Liturgical Studies Program at Drew University.