American Methodist History

JASON LEE: PROPHET OF THE NEW OREGON
By Cornelius J. Brosnan, Ph.D.

As an American Methodist missionary to the Flathead Indians, Jason Lee (1803-1845) stood for courage of convictions—both spiritual and political—throughout his lifetime. Among his many accomplishments was the expansion of the Methodist missions in Oregon, presiding over the earliest meeting to establish a provisional government leading to Oregon's statehood, and the formation of Oregon Institute, now Willamette University. How he did so in the face of misunderstandings, adversity and personal grief is retold in this exciting reprint edition with new facts added!

METHODIST TRAIL BLAZER:
PHILIP GATCH
By Elizabeth Connor

One of the first native-born Americans licensed to preach Methodism, Philip Gatch braved trials such as mob attack during his years as a circuit rider traveling the hostile roads between New Jersey, Maryland and Virginia. Active in both church and civil affairs, the local preacher worked to abolish slavery and served on the committee drawing up the first Constitution of Ohio. His exciting life story is told here!

THOMAS WARE, A SPECTATOR
AT THE CHRISTMAS CONFERENCE
Edited by William R. Phinney, Kenneth E. Rowe & Robert B. Steelman

A timely book, produced to celebrate the 1984 Bicentennial of the United Methodist Church in America. In his own words Thomas Ware recalls the Christmas Conference and his own part in the 1784 proceedings. Along with the reprint of the 1839 "Sketches of the Life and Travels of Rev. Thomas Ware," new material has been added by the editors including biographical notes, and Ware and Christmas Conference bibliographies plus indexing.
