CONTENTS

Contributors .................................................. 218

An Early Methodist Community of Women
by Paul Wesley Chilcote .................................. 219

"That They May Be Free Indeed": Liberty in the Early Methodist Thought of John Wesley and Francis Asbury by Timothy L. Wood .................................... 231

On Keyboard and Breadboard: The Wesley Family Courts the London Scene
by Samuel J. Rogal ....................................... 242

Two Remarkable Stories: Lost Entries of John Wesley’s Journal
by Daniel F. Flores and Thelma Herrera-Flores .............. 251

The Decline of the Class Meeting
by Charles Edward White ............................... 258

DISCOVERY edited by Frederick E. Maser ................. 268

Book Reviews .................................................. 270

Minutes of the 1999 Annual Meeting of the Historical Society of
The United Methodist Church .......................... 276

Methodist Traveling Preachers in America 1773–1799
Compiled by Edwin Schell ............................... 280

Copyright: 2000, General Commission on Archives and History,
The United Methodist Church

Methodist History is included in Religion Index One: Periodicals,
Religious and Theological Abstracts,
Historical Abstracts and America: History and Life

Manuscripts submitted for publication and all other correspondence should be addressed to Editor, METHODIST HISTORY, P.O. Box 127, Madison, NJ 07940. Prospective authors are advised to write for guidelines for publication.
CONTRIBUTORS

PAUL WESLEY CHILCOTE is Professor of Historical Theology and Wesleyan Studies at Asbury Theological Seminary, Orlando, Florida. He has also taught at Africa University in Zimbabwe and the Methodist Theological School in Ohio. Dr. Chilcote is the author of She Offered Them Christ: The Legacy of Women Preachers in Early Methodism and a number of other publications. His article is based on a paper presented at the Oxford Institute of Methodist Theological Studies in 1997.

TIMOTHY L. WOOD is a doctoral candidate in the Department of History at Marquette University. He is a graduate of Indiana University Southeast (B.A.) and the University of Louisville (M.A.). He has published articles in a number of places including Fides et Historia, The New England Quarterly, and Rhode Island History. His doctoral dissertation in progress is titled, “Methodism and the Politics of Slavery in Nineteenth Century America.”

SAMUEL J. ROGAL retired in 1998 as Chair of the Division of Humanities and Fine Arts at Illinois Valley Community College. He has recently completed the ten-volume Biographical Dictionary of Eighteenth Century Methodism (Edwin Mellen Press). He is at work on a study of black and white loyalists to establish Methodism in parts of Nova Scotia following the American Revolution.

DANIEL F. FLORES AND THELMA HERRERA FLORES are students of the history of Methodism living in Princeton, New Jersey. Daniel is a graduate of Gordon-Conwell Theological Seminary (M.A.) and Drew University (M.Phil.). He is working on a doctoral dissertation at Drew on Nathan Bangs. Thelma is a graduate of Drew University (B.A.), Yale University Divinity School (M.A.R.), and is enrolled in the D.Litt. graduate program in spirituality at Drew University. Their research for this article at the Rylands Library was made possible through an endowment provided by Juanita Edwards-Mercer.

CHARLES EDWARD WHITE is a Professor of Christian Thought and History at Spring Arbor College in Michigan. He is the author of The Beauty of Holiness: Phoebe Palmer as Theologian, Revivalist, Feminist, and Humanitarian (Zondervan).

EDWIN SCHELL is Executive Secretary of the Historical Society of the Baltimore-Washington Annual Conference. He is a retired clergy member of that Conference. Ed has made major contributions to our knowledge about American Methodism. He is also the compiler of the Table of United Methodist Church Annual Conferences, 1796–1997 which is available from the General Commission on Archives and History.

218