CONTRIBUTORS

DALE DAILEY is a retired engineer with an undergraduate degree in civil engineering (Tri-State University, BSCE 1961) and master's degrees in both business administration (Michigan State University, MBA 1964) and creative writing (Western Michigan University, MFA 1999). The subject of the essay was the paternal grandfather of the author's wife. The family has inherited many documents related to him.

KENNETH E. ROWE is Emeritus Professor of Church History and Methodist Librarian at the Theological School of Drew University, Madison, New Jersey. He is a co-author of the recently-published Methodist Experience in America, Volume 1.

DAWN M. DIGRIUS is Assistant Professor of History at Stevens Institute of Technology. Digrius received her Ph.D. in European Intellectual History and the History of Science from Drew University in 2007. She has contributed to several publications on the history of evolution, including a chapter on Gregor Mendel in Icons of Evolution (2008) and a forthcoming chapter on botany and evolution in Michael Ruse's The Cambridge Encyclopedia of Darwin and Evolutionary Thought. Her current research focuses on the history of paleobotany and its contribution to the history of evolutionary theory.
