CONTRIBUTORS

DOUGLAS R. CHANDLER is now Professor Emeritus at Wesley Theological Seminary, where he has been professor of Church History since 1939. Dr. Chandler received the A.B. from Asbury College, M.Div. from Wesley Theological Seminary, M.A. from Yale University, and the D.D. from Western Maryland College. He has lectured and written on Christian biography, John Wesley and the rise of Methodism, Methodist Protestant history, and related subjects.

DAVID L. STEELE is a member of the Western North Carolina Conference of the United Methodist Church and is presently pastor of Johnstontown United Methodist Church, Thomasville, N. C. He received the A.B. degree from Duke University and the M.Div. from Duke Divinity School. The work on the John Young papers was begun under the direction of Dr. Frank Baker of the Duke Divinity School.

SAMUEL J. ROGAL, Associate Professor of English, State University of New York, College at Oswego, received the B.S. degree from Clarion (Pennsylvania) State College and the M.A. from the University of Pittsburgh. He has written and lectured in the areas of British Literature of the Eighteenth Century, hymnology, and composition and rhetoric.

COVER: Acuff Chapel was built by Timothy Acuff about 1786, and was visited by Francis Asbury. It may be the oldest Methodist meeting house in Tennessee. Holston Conference bought and restored this building, using some of the original logs. A pilgrimage is conducted annually in late May.
